CBRE Outlook Portugal Report is a benchmark report in the real estate sector with more than 6 editions launched at the beginning of each year with the outlook for the year. The report covers the macroeconomic outlook, the real estate investment market and an analysis of each of the product types, from offices, logistics, retail, hospitality, living and alternative sectors.

The report addresses the forecasts of the main indicators of supply, demand, price, yields among others of the different asset classes as well as the major trends that will mark the future of the asset classes such as ESG and digitalization.

One of the main reasons that makes the Outlook report stand out is that it concisely anticipates at the beginning of the year the performance of the main indicators by product and the trends that will mark the behaviour of the year by type of asset.

CBRE "sees more" and the preparation of this report is the result of the wide range of perspectives of the different internal teams over a long and continuous period of time, from the Research, Capital Markets, A&T and OPRE teams, among others.

After more than 6 editions, CBRE clients recognise the report as a valuable guide in their business decision-making and that it is one of the sector's benchmark reports whose publication is eagerly awaited.
